New Tidelands Fight Started

Shivers Asserts Texas Stand Is Dissent Only

AUSTIN, July 13—(AP)—Texas' fight for its tidelands is dissent—not disunity—with the federal government, Gov. Allan Shivers today told a big group of Texans gathered here to battle for the state's claim.

The assembly included state, county and school officials, mayors and legislators called by the newly-formed Texas Property Defense Association.

Purpose of the meeting was to set up an agressive campaign to keep the marginal sea as a source of public school revenue.

"At a time like this, when our national well-being is imperiled, we must be careful to distinguish between disunity and dissent," the governor said.

"In our assembling here today, there is not even a hint of disunity over international policies. Whatever Texas has that the federal government needs to fight Communism in Korea or elsewhere, those things the federal government can and will have.

"At the same time, this ever eagerness on the part of Texas and Texans to serve our national and international interests emphasizes our right and our duty to speak out against a trend that we feel is not true to the basic principles and conceptions of our form of government."

Shivers told the group that they need not sell each other on the tidelands proposition but to sell people who are on the doubtful list.

"As I understand it, that is your purpose here today—to perfect an organization and plan a program that will carry the word far and near of our stand on the tidelands question and the policies of govenment that are involved," he said.

The association was formed in Galveston about four months ago with Galveston's Mayor Herbert Y. Cartwright as acting president. Adoption of a constitution and by-laws were also major business items for consideration today.

Other scheduled speakers included Attorney General Price Daniel; Robert Lee Bobbitt of San Antonio, chairman of the senate bar tidelands committee; House Speaker Durwood Manford; and J. E. Sturrock, general manager of the Texas Water Conservation Association.

Sentiment Grows For Speeding Up European Arming

WASHINGTON, July 13—(AP)—Strong sentiment is developing within the administration to speed up the flow of American arms to Western Europe as a result of the Korean crisis.

Some officials are talking of sharply increasing, perhaps doubling, the present rate of delivery of $1,000,000,000 worth of guns, tanks and other equipment now being given to this country's Atlantic pact allies.

Behind the scenes discussions of the state of North Atlantic treaty defenses reflect a widespread concern over the total defensive strength of the non-Communist world.

The tense world situation is generating new pressures inside the government for some degree of home front mobilization in order to increase armament production.

Another and more direct pressure for marshalling more of America's resources for war is said to arise from the mounting evidence that the United States is in for a long and costly struggle in Korea.

So far there is a conflict of requirements between the urgent buildup of forces fighting in Korea and the European arms aid program as presently scheduled.

Without a swift and substantial increase of arms manufacturing here, some authorities say weapons which were destined for Europe may have to be "borrowed" for the Far East. They deplore this necessity because in both military and diplomatic strategy, Europe, rather than Asia, is rated as the primary focus of American security interests.

Union Leader Contends Purposes Of Economy Commission Being Changed

AUSTIN, July 13—(AP)—A labor leader charged today that an effort was being made to "pervert" the Texas Economy Commission into a propaganda agency against the wage ideals of unions.

In a letter to Gov. Allan Shivers, Paul C. Sparks, executive secretary of the Texas State Federation of Labor, said the effort was being made in connection with the El Paso highway wage dispute.

"We believe Ike Ashburn has betrayed his trust and obligations as a member of the commission by writing a letter to the member of the commission, as such urging them to join the battle against the El Paso Building and Construction Trades Council, which is currently seeking by lawful means in Texas courts to enforce the state law requiring payment of the prevailing wage on public work," Sparks' letter said.

Ashburn, asked for comment on this, said the letter was an expression of his feeling as an individual and as executive vice president of the Texas Good Roads Association to inform them of the possible effects on state economy if labor's position in the wage dispute is upheld.

"There was no intention of implication to involve the economy commission. Members of the commission were not asked to aprticipate in the fight," he said. Ashburn said the letter went out on Good Roads Association stationery.

Gov. Shivers had no immediate comment. His office said the letter had been received, but that he had not yet seen it.

"You assured us in asking us to serve on the commission that it was not being created to grind anybody's axes," Sparks wrote the governor. "You said the commission was being created as a sincere, non-political, non-partisan effort to eliminate waste and inefficiency in state government.

Profiteering In Food Charged As Result Of War

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan said today it is a "fair deduction" that profiteering in food has started as a result of the Korean war.

Brannan said profiteering is entirely unjustified but that he would prefer not to comment now on what can or should be done about it.

The Secretary talked with White House reporters about some recent boosts in food prices, as in meat and bread, after calling on President Truman, among other matters.

He said there is no justification for sudden increases in food prices. The country is producing food at a rate 20 per cent greater than in 1941, Brannan said.

Nine Induction Centers Listed

SAN ANTONIO, July 13.—(AP)—Draftees in the Fourth Army area will be processed at nine induction centers in Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma. These will be at Little Rock, New Orleans and Shreveport, Oklahoma City, and Amarillo, Dallas, El Paso, Houston and San Antonio.

After being processed the draftees will be sent to reception centers. Officers said the Army probably would use only existing reception centers and there are none in the Fourth Army area.

Tyler Industrial Fund Operations Listed For Clubs

Henry Bell, Tyler banker, today told members of Corsicana's three civic lcubs and civic and industrial leaders how Tyler's industrial foundation was set up and how it operates.

The originally-planned fund of $100,000 has been increased to $300,000 in Tyler and now the fund has investments totalling more than $850,000 on property and buildings valued at more than $2,000,000, he said.

He said the industrial fund has been directly responsible for bringing five new industries to Tyler and indirectly responsible for two more.

Tyler, the banker said, has 55 industries which employ 3,581 persons and has total annual payrolls of $9,285,264. These industries paid the city a total of $115,292 in taxes last eyar.

"The seven firms brought to Tyler by our industrial foundation," Bell said, "use 20 per cent of the employes, pay 23 percent of the salaries and 40 per cent of the taxes."

He went on to state that a city needs more than an industrial fund to get industries.

"The city must have something which makes it the best site for the industry. It must work to find out what industries are going to move and to invite them. It needs good hospitality, a good type of labor and agricultural development," Bell said.

No city will get new industries unless they invite them, he added.

In order to have a successful foundation, Bell said it means the assistance of legal brains and someone to do the work at his own expense.

Bell said the Tyler foundation was originally set up as a $100,000 corporation but by the time it was approved in March, 1945, it was incorporated for $200,000.

NAVY DENIES RUMOR

TOKYO, July 13.—(AP)—A Navy spokesman said today "the United States Navy Carrier on duty in the Western Pacific is still very much afloat." The 27,000-ton Essex class carrier Valley Forge had been rumored sunk. In Washington, a Navy Department also denied the rumor.

Big Sub Fleet Believed Included In Russian Craft In Korean War Sector

By ELTON C. FAY.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—Russia is believed to have an assorted collection of about 800 naval craft deployed near the Korean war area—including between 70 and 80 submarines.

Naval sources here figure that perhaps a third of this school of submarines are the new XXI Snorkels.

Although the 800 total estimate is numerically big, there is no present evidence that it comprises anything like a balanced naval force. Those studying the situation believe many of these vessels are small craft of various types and that certainly nothing bigger than cruisers are in the area.

So far as can be determined, the Russian navy still possesses no aircraft carriers.

One unknown factor seems to be how many of the smaller Soviet vessels may be landing craft or types that could be used in emergency for an amphibious operation.

The presence in the Far East of any sizeable number of landing craft could be of grave concern to American forces. They could be used to provide an amphibious "lift" for North Korean flanking operations down the South Korean coast lines. Or they might some day be used in an attempted operation against the American defense bastion in Japan, should Russia and the United States fall into gloves-off war.

However, it is the Russian submarine force that is drawing most U. S. attention.

As deployed, the Red sub fleet in the Far East seems to have

NO DECISION YET REACHED OFFICIALS SAY

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP)—President Truman said today he is considering mobilizing more men and money behind the Korean war effort. He declared he will take any steps necessary to bring it to a successful conclusion. He added that the government has under consideration plans for every phase of home-front mobilization but will use them only if necessary.

Truman told his news conference: No food rationing will become necessary; no food shortage is in prospect; and hoarding is very foolish.

Truman said the sharp increase in many food prices must be attributed to profiteering.

BY STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—Well-placed officials today reported growing pressure on the administration to seek at least limited control powers over industry to help arm the country for the fighting in Korea.

They said no specific plan yet has reached President Truman to their knowledge, nor has there been any decision on the seeking of emergency powers from Congress.

They said they expected the whole question of home-front mobilization to be placed before Friday's cabinet meeting One official said there would be a "top to bottom" survey.

Military Plane Crashes In Rough Mountain Sector

TUCSON, Ariz., July 13.—(AP)—A big military plane crashed and exploded into a mass of flames in the rugged Galuro mountains of southern Arizona early today.

Six hours after the crash, a search plane reported sighting wreckage and three survivors. Parachutes were spread on a ridge.

Davis-Monthan Air Force base here said the type of military plane had not been established. B-29 Superfortresses and the more modern B-50s operate out of the base regularly. Both four-engine types carry a normal crew of 11.

Scene of the wreckage is about 40 miles northeast of Tucson in some of Arizona's roughest country.

Clifford Stahl, pilot of the CAP search plane from which the wreckage was sighted, returned to the air force base here and reported the location of the wreckage. A rescue party and ambulances left the base immediately.

A rancher, Homer Byrd, had reported he heard engines thunder over his ranch house, 40 miles northwest of Willcox, at 12:20 a. m. (MST).

Texas May Pass 7½-Million Mark In 1950 Census

By The Associated Press

Texas' chances of passing the 7,500,000 mark in the 1950 census improved mightily today.

All that is necessary is for Harris county—which includes bustling Houston and its populous suburbs—to exceed 620,000. Harris county is expected to pass that figure. The preliminary nose-counts for Harris county and Houston are expected to be announced in a few days.

Here's the way the situation sizes up:

Bexar (San Antonio) county's preliminary 1950 population was announced today as 496,050. San Antonio's figure was 406,811.

Associated Press compilations covering the 252 counties already announced—with Bexar and Harris counties the only gaps—totaled 6,387,188.

Add that 252-county cumulative total of 6,387,188 to Bexar county's 496,050 and you get 6,883,238. That's just 616,762 short of 7,500,000.

There is another factor: The preliminary figures for counties are revised from time to time, always upward, as "missing persons" are corraled by the census bureau. Further, all figures now being announced are preliminary. The final, official figures will come much later from Washington. Additional revisions which show up in the Washington announcement are much more likely to show additions than substractions.

If Texas passes the 7,500,000 mark it will be a whopping gain of more than a million over the 1940 figure of 6,414,824.

North Korean Bases Bombed

Heavy Planes In Force Hit Big Rail Center

TOKYO, July 13—(AP)—A mighty aramda of nearly 50 B-29s struck North Korea today. Their daylight raid inaugurated precision bombing in the Korean campaign. Five hundred tons of bombs were dropped on the target.

Two groups of superforts—rushed to the Far Pacific in just eight days from the time they first were alerted on the U. S. west coast—attacked a key railroad center north of the 38th parallel.

Allied aircraft have been keeping the pressure on allied communications. An air force communique reported 38 Red tanks and 82 trucks destroyed.

More than 225 combat missions were flown Wednesday compared with about 150 Tuesday and nearly 300 Monday.

For the second day in a row the North Koreans put up token air opposition. Two Yak-9 fighters attacked a flight of American jet fighters over Chochiwon, which invading ground forces took Wednesday.

Neither side lost any planes in the resulting dogfight.

F-80 jets again spearheaded the attack on the Communist forces, accounting for 175 of the air sorties.

They focused their strafing and rockets in the western central sectors—in a triangular area from Kongju north to Suwon and east to Tanyang. The Chonan area felt the heaviest blows and a "large part" of North Korean personnel and material losses occurred there.

Senators Urge Faster Delivery Of Combat Planes

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—The Senate Armed Services committee unanimously agreed today that the Armed Services should seek faster delivery of several billion dollars worth of combat aircraft now on order.

Chairman Tydings (D-Md.) announced the group had taken that stand at a closed meeting. He said it adopted this resolution:

"In view of the present critical Korean situation and the threatening situation throughout the world, it is the opinion of the Senate committee on armed services that the military establishment should immediately give consideration to accelerating the delivery of planes on order to the maximum extent necessary."

Tydings said that "several billion dollars" worth of aircraft now are on order for the Air Force, the Navy and Marines.

A speed-up in deliveries would mean an increase in the present rate of military spending since original plans were to spread the cost of the planes over a long period.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—The army said today there "is no present plan" to issue a second draft call. It asked last Monday for 20,000 draftees. A spokesman denied there were plans for a second call when told there were published reports the army would ask for 80,000 more draftees.

Orderly Withdrawal Saves Many GI Lives

BY LEIF ERICKSON

AT THE AMERICAN FRONT IN KOREA, July 13.—(AP)—American troops who covered the retreat from Chochiwon said today "the withdrawal was damn orderly."

"If it wasn't we wouldn't have brought so many back," said Lt. James Bufano, 2952 Fenton Ave., The Bronx, N. Y.

He said the Communists tried to "raise hell with the pull-out" but mortar and artillery fire splashed harmlessly in nearby rice paddies. Only four shells of the fairly heavy barrage fell in the city.

Lt. Delbert Gates of Joinerville, Texas, covered the withdrawal with a machinegun "until the last man I could see was out."

Gates said some Americans headed in the wrong direction, but they have a chance of working back to their own lines. Many returned to U. S. positions during the night.

The American front was quiet today.

Battle seasoning is building confidence in the American GI. A big morale builder has been American air action even though there have been mistaken strafings of U. S. positions.

"The damned North Koreans are taking a hell of a lot worse of it than we are," said Gates. "Every time the air hits them they get a real bloody nose.

"Every time there's a fight it takes a couple of days for them to straighten themselves out."

A senior front line officer who is a veteran of the European war said "the guys (infantrymen) getting shot at don't see much of what our air force is doing.

Examination Of Draftees Will Start Aug. 7

AUSTIN, July 13.—(AP)—Physical examinations for the first Texans called by draft boards will begin Aug. 7, State Selective Service headquarters announced today.

First inductions will be sometime in September.

Registrants selected by local draft boards will be sent to main army recruiting stations in Texas and Louisiana Aug. 7-11 inclusive, Brig. Gen. Paul L. Wakefield, State director, said.

State headquarters is now working on quotas for each of the State's 107 draft boards. Texas has been called on for 1,005 men.

"We have to send enough men to the examining stations to be sure we will get enough passed to fill our call," Gen. Wakefield said. "We'll be ready just as soon as we can with the exact figure."

The examining stations are at Amarillo, El Paso, San Antonio, Dallas, Houston and Shreveport, La. The men who pass the August examinations will be inducted in September. The exact date is not yet known.

Local boards will send men for examination by the shortest and most economical routes, Wakefield said.

When registrants go up for their physical examinations, they are returned to their local boards, whether accepted or rejected.

U. S. Communists Are More Active, FBI Head Notes

WASHINGTON, July 13—(AP)—U. S. Communists have increased their underground operations during the past year, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today. The result, he said, is the heaviest work load his agency ever has handled.

In an annual review of FBI activities for the fiscal year which ended June 30, Hoover said the number of investigations involving internal security and national defense is at a record level, exceeding the volume of similar work during the World War II years.

"The increased work load," the report said, "stems from the activities of the Communist party and the expanded orbit of their underground operations.

"Increased security consciousness on the part of the party leadership has brought about decentralization of party administrative machinery and transferal of previously open operations to an underground apparatus.

"These developments have complicated the FBI task of maintaining coverage of Communist activity."

The FBI director recently asked congress for more than 300 additional agents, saying they were required principally for internal security investigations.

Eight Days From West Coast of U. S. to Korean Targets—

50 B-29s, Manned By Veterans, Start Precision Bombing

BY RUSSELL BRINES

Representing The Allied Press.

TOKYO, July 13.—(AP)—Nearly 50 B-29 Superfortresses plastered a key North Korean military target with 500 tons of bombs today in the mightiest single air blow of the Korean campaign.

The mission inaugurated mass precision bombing by two groups of Superforts rushed here from the U. S. West Coast bases.

World War II trained crews flew the four-engined bombers from two Far Eastern bases through rain and mist for the largest mass foray of the campaign. The target was a railroad center north of the 38th parallel.

All of the planes and their eager, youthful veterans returned safely without meeting opposition on the daylight raid.

It took exactly eight days to deliver this new punch—from the date overseas orders were first delivered to the release of bomb bays. In that time the men, their planes and most of their equipment were moved 8,000 miles and prepared for an air blow that meant a round trip of more than 1,500 miles.

Air officers said this proved the speed with which strategic bombing assignments could be carried out throughout the world.

One of the aircraft commanders, Lt. James T. Patrick of Carnation, Wash., said it differently: "This will make Uncle Joe sit up and take notice."

I was in Patrick's plane on an assignment representing the combined Allied press. But a few miles after grunting our plane—and its 20,000 pounds of bombs—off the ground, we had to turn back with a faulty motor.

The remainder of the sleek bombers made a perfect overwater rendezvous and released their bombs at 11:02 a. m. Japan daylight time Thursday (7:02 p. m. CST Wednesday) through mist so thick that radar was used to sight the target.

Maj. Gen. Emmett (Rosy) O'Donnell directed this first mission of his new command, the Far East Bomber Command (provisional). The 43 year old two star general, once a West Point football coach, led the first World War II B-29 raid on Japan.

About 60 per cent of the men in his new command are combat tested, veterans of thunderous pattern bombing mission from Germany to Japan. They were geared for battle today with alert, confident eagerness.

ADVANCE AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN KOREA, July 14.—(AP)—Advancing under cover of a heavy rain shower, Communist North Korean infantry started moving into position Thursday night on the Kum river north bank east and west of the main highway bridge south on Chichiwon, front line reports said. This is the sector held by the Americans.

TOKYO, July 14—(Friday—(AP)—Korean Communist troops, severely hammered by the Air Force but still advancing, shifted the weight of their southern drive to the east on Thursday, away from the American sector.

A dispatch from advance American headquarters said that about 10 a. m. Thursday (6 p. m. Wednesday, CST) the Reds started two heavy attacks with about two divisions against South Korean forces in the central peninsula area.

The American sector along the Kum river below Chochiwon was very quiet while the Reds shifted their attack against the South Koreans on two flanks.

Airmen reacted quickly, working over the new Red attack zone from dawn to dusk and promising renewed strikes on the morrow. The South Koreans gave some ground but not much, the spokesman said.

Chochiwon, given up by the Americans Wednesday, was pounded by B-26 bombers which carried six tons each today. Red tanks and a big road junction in the town were the main targets.

The spokesman did not pinpoint the area of the new Red attack

We will never attain real security until people everywhere realize that the free nations of the world are the true seekers of world peace," the president said.

Excise Tax Cuts Are Victims Of Korean Conflict

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—Chairman George (D-Ga) of the senate finance committe said today he sees no prospect of increasing federal taxes at the present session of congress, even though the Korena situation worsens.

"There will be plenty time for that in January, if the need arises," he said.

George formally announced the indefinite suspension of work on the house-passed $1,010,000,000 excise tax slashing bill, but he did not write off entirely the chance of some action later on this legisolation.

He summed up te situation for newsmen as his finance committee concluded public hearings on the house bill.

Military leaders asked the appropriations committee for a $1,300,000 icrease in funds to boost the strength of the National Guard.

Senators Hayden (D-Ariz) and Maybank (D-SC) said the committee decided to wait until President Truman submits an expected request for addtional military funds for the Korean fighting before acting on the National Guard item.

The decision to put the tax cutting bill aside came, George said, after Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, followed a conference with the president, advised him that it would not be prudent to cut taxes at this time, in view of the Korean situation.

CONTROLS

Some administration officials were reported to favor an early White House request for powers comparable to those of World War II, under which automobile assembly lines could be converted to tanks and guns, and radio and television plants to radar equipment.

Others, it was said, advocate a "wait-and-see" policy, or one which would call controls into play only as needed.

Foremost responsibility for advising Truman rests on two men, Secretary of Defense Johnson and Chairman W. Stuart Symington of the National Securities Resources Board (NSRB). The latter agency is responsible for industrial mobilization planning; its general position was reported to be as follows:

1. NSRB is rounding out a complete program of emergency powers but has not yet presented such a program of price, wage and manpower controls and materials allocation to Truman.

2. NSRB has received from the White House no request for a program of limited controls, such as a voluntary system of rationing steel or other currently tight materials.

3. The mobiliation agency, as a general policy, opposes "limited" or piecemeal control measures on grounds that World War II experience showed them to be unworkable.

The major pressure, so far, officials said, has come from industry and from Congress members. A good deal of it originated with smaller manufacturing companies which have sought government allocations on grounds that their suppliers are not delivering enough materials to keep their plants in full operation.

With the arrival of increasingly pessimistic reports from the Korean front, there has been growing seitiment for much more drastic measures. However, the advocates of a quick plunge into home-front mobilization apparently are less numerous than those who feel that action should be delayed until the needs of the Armed Forces become clearer.

Many civilian officials hold that the new military outlays of $1,000,000,000 or $2,000,000,000 can be absorbed without controls—or, if only slighter larger, with voluntary measures or very limited government regulation.

On the other hand, government experts estimate that if new defense spending proves necessary on a scale approaching $10,000,000,000 a year or thereabouts—besides Korea, there are needs of Atlantic pact nations to consider—controls inevitably will be needed to cushion the inflationary impact.

The problem then would be how to pile a huge load of munitions orders on the steel, auto and other basic industries which already are running at or near capacity in filing the boom demands of a prosperous civilian economy.

To allocate metals, either by voluntary or mandatory measures, would be to run the risk of grey markets, hoarding and speculation; also the price of substitute materials would rise. This, in turn, would create demands for price control, then for wage control to help hold the price line, and finally for manpower control to discourage workers from leaving essential industries.

Such cycles were typical of World War II experience, and are said to underly the reasoning that it would be better for the government to wait, if possible, until military needs have crystalized before pushing ahead with a request for control legislation.

Summing up, officials said Truman has three choices, if he finally comes to the decision that control powers are inevitable. These are:

First, to seek each piece of legislation as it becomes necessary. This, it is agreed, would be less disruptive immediately to business and far less likely to start a panicky buying and hoarding rush among consumers—but it is seen as the least effective system.

Second, to take the bull by the horns and seek quick controls of every type which might prove needed for a long and costly effort.

Third, to seek "standby" authority providing all the powers which might be needed, with the understanding that they would be brought into play only as conditions warranted.

The last alternative was the one envisaged by NSRB in preparing the proposed emergency mobilization act, which has been under constant revision. This 20-title bill, officials have stated, would not be invoked except upon the declaration of a national emergency. Its detailed contents have never been revealed.

There is considerable opposition to any request for standby powers at the present time, on grounds that such a move might spur buying, thus creating the very shortages the legislation would be intended to avoid.

Union Vacation Bible School Is Ended At Eureka

The Union Daily Vacation Bible School which was in session for two weeks at the Methodist and Patterson Memorial Presbyterian Churches at Eureka was concluded with special exercises on Friday morning, July 7th. Handwork was displayed and the children demonstrated their knowledge of Scripture and songs. Seventy-three children and young people were enrolled, with an average of seventy-eight per cent in attendance.

The teaching staff included: Mrs. Douglass Hodge, superintendent; Miss Lena Clausell, Religious Educational Director of Central Texas Presbytery; Miss Eloise Johnston, Mrs. Willie Hodge, Mrs. I. J. Moles, Mrs. Mildred Lipscomb, Miss Mary Patterson, Mrs. Bub Grantham, Mrs. Heywood Thomas, Mrs. John Grantham and the Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Bailey.

With the exception of July 4th, refreshments were served every morning during recess as a recreational feature. Expenses were shared by the two churches and a large number of interested friends of the community.

Those in charge of the school were appreciative of all who assisted in providing transportation and refreshments, and all who donated money and rendered other services. The splendid co-operation shown during the school is expected to continue through the union revival services which will be held August 4th to 13th.

739 Boy Scouts En Route To Homes From Valley Forge Visit Corsicana

It was a hungry bunch of Boy Scouts, 759 of them, who arrived in Corsicana around 1:30 p. m. today. The Burlington Rock Island trains which carried the Scouts were more than a hour late in arriving from Houston.

The Scouts are from Washington, Oregon and Idaho and are on their way home from the Jamboree at Valley Forge.

The first train, which arrived at 1:25 carried 329 Scouts and leaders. They marched from the depot to the Southland Cotton Oil Co., plant and were through the barbecue chow line in less than five minutes.

Each was given a boxed lunch which contained barbecued beef, bread, pickles, potato chips, baked beans and cake. With each box went a soft drink.

As soon as the first gang was finished they lined up and were escorted through the oil mill. From the oil mill they marched to the Corsicana Cotton Mills for a tour of that plant.

By the time the first group was going through the oil mill the second train, carrying 430 Scouts and leaders, had arrived. It was due in at 12:25 p. m. and pulled in at 1:57.

This group went through the same chow line and inspection tour and did as the others.

Train officials said the delay in schedule was caused by engine trouble on the first train.

The delayed schedule limited the time the Scouts had to spend in Corsicana. A train official said it was necessary to cut the stop from two hours to one and a half. However, the Scouts got to see all they had on their schedule and had plenty to eat.

This was the second and third groups of Scouts entertained here in two days. More than 400 visited Corsicana Monday.

Arrangements were made by the Goodwill and Convention committee of the Chamber of Commerce, headed by Glen Thompson.

Others who assisted in the inspection tours and feeding included the following:

W. D. Shivers, Don Winslow, B. R. Bonner, Alton Hughes, Garland Lincecum, C. R. Reese, Ralph Slaughter, Frank Dickson, Homer Harris, R. W. Knight, Jim Bonner, H. M. Montgomery, George Callaway, Clifton Fread, Thompson, A. H. Bonner, Bob Reading, Warren E. Church, Ralph Brown, Tom Eady and Lloyd Carraway.

Texas Highway Patrolmen Jack Gaines and Henry Tucker and City Officer Frank Chapman escorted the Scouts across Highway 75 as they marched from their trains to the oil mill and again when they went back to the trains.

"It is not an objetcive of the Texas Economy Commission thus to put pressure on the courts to influence their decisions. Such a movement as Ashburn suggests would be unethical, as the duty of the courts is to render justice impartially under the facts and the law.

The El Paso Building and Construction Trades Council is disputing the Highway Commission's interpretation of prevailing wages in the El Paso case. The case is now pending on appeal in the State Supreme Court.

The Economy Commission was named by Gov. Shivers to study all phases of state economy including finances and possible reorganization to increase efficiency.

Charles W. Pugh, 900 North Twenty-second street, reported to police that on July 4 someone stole a wrench from his car while it was parked near A. and P. grocery. He said he'd located the wrench at a local store and would identify it.

Officers Wiswell and Powell arrested a motorist for reckless driving.

Three motorists paid fines for parking violations and officers tagged 11 vehicles for the same offenses. Three of the tagged vehicles carried Navarro county registrations.

Officer Wright investigated an accident at the intersection of Highways 75 and 31 where vehicles driven by John Davis, Jr., negro, Corsicana, Merle Sheppard, Route 4, Corsicana, and George Deyo, 317 West Third avenue, collided. No one was injured. The accident report states Davis was driving an ambulance carrying a passenger to the P. and S. Health Officer Warns Against Panic On Polio

AUSTIN, July 13.—(Spl.)—State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox has turned the bright light of optimism on the heretofore dark picture of polio in Texas.

Observing that the state's 1000 cases of polio since the year's beginning has occurred among a population of 7 1-2 million people, the health official Thursday deplored "the attitude of hysteria that polio creates in a community."

That didn't mean people should not be concerned, the doctor commented, for a case of illness in any form is good reason for great concern.

"I'm talking about the fear that keeps a person or a whole community from thinking straight. Of course each case of polio is an individual tragedy for the family involved, but wholesale public panic simply is not justified."

He doesn't want to encourage complacency either, the state health officer said, adding:

"Every clear-thinking effort must be made to keep every home, every community, every vacation camp consistently clean and sanitary. Briefly, elimination of fly and insect breeding places, personal cleanliness, and getting milk, water and food from safe, approved sources will aid in preventing a number of communicable diseases."

National statistics, Dr. Cox asserted, show good reason for optimism in most cases of polio. According to the figures, from 40 to 60 per cent of aljl victims recover completely and can do anything they choose.

Fatalities Low.

From 25 to 40 per cent recover with only minor disability, and can, within very wide limts, lead perfectly normal lives. From 15 to 20 per cent are more severely handicapped, and 5 to 10 per cent terminate fatally.

"It all goes to show that polio is actually a minor couse of illness, and an even less significant cause of death, "when compared to certain other communicable diseases," the health officer concluded.

but the dispatch said it was farther than the penetrations Wednesday—south of Chunju.

Earlier today the spokesman had reported that Red columns of tanks, infantry and armored cars had moved 15 miles south of Chongju which is in the Western battle sector northeast of Chochiwon.

This drive from Chungju leaves a deep dent in the arc across the center of the peninsula which the South Koreans had been holding fast for several days.

The spokesman said there had been "some shifting of armor eastward" by the Reds to support their attack.

U. S. Air Forces threw their first mass B-29 Superfortress strike at North Korea today, blasting a rail center with 500 tons of bombs.

The raid was in daylight against a rail center north of the 38th parallel by nearly 50 planes. It was first reported that all planes returned to their bases but later the Far East Airforce said one B29 was missing. It did not say specifically that it was lost on the 50-plane raid and would not disclose the area where it disappeared. In Washington the Air Force announced a B29 had been shot down near Seoul. Far East Air Force confirmed this and said the plane had been lost Wednesday. FEAF added: "We believe there are survivors." This was taken to mean two Superfortresses were missing.

On the ground, weary U. S. troops dug in behind the vital Kum River while three North Korean divisions massed to the north for an assault over this natural barrier.

Far to the northeast, the Reds bridged the Han river at Tanyang and sent at least one division, with artillery, to cut the key rail line from the southeast Korean port of Pusan to Taejon, 13 miles south of the Kum river line.

General MacArthur, in a communique covering developments reported earlier in front line dispatches, said American and South Korean forces "continued to withdraw before numerically superior forces to take up defense behind prepared positions and natural barriers."

He apparently referred to the withdrawal south of the Kum. Spokesmen at front said earlier U. S. troops had blasted several bridges over the strategic stream.

MacArthur's headquarters also announced Thursday night that American losses to date have been 42 killed, 190 wounded and 256 missing.

"Losses sustained by the American forces have been greatly exaggerated in press reports from the front," the statement said. It reported casualties of the "lost battalion" as two killed, seven wounded, 12 missing.

"Individual wounded or mentally shocked have given a completely distorted" picture, headquarters said.

"American ground units in Korea are fighting one of the most skillful and heroic holding and rear guard actions in history," the statement said, adding:

"Casualties inflicted on the enemy have been immeasurably greater...Each day we reduce the enemy's relative superiority in numbers and weapons."

Hurled back by North Korea's Red horde, weary doughboys dug in on the Kum river's south bank for a new defense. They had a new commander, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, veteran tank fighter of World War II.

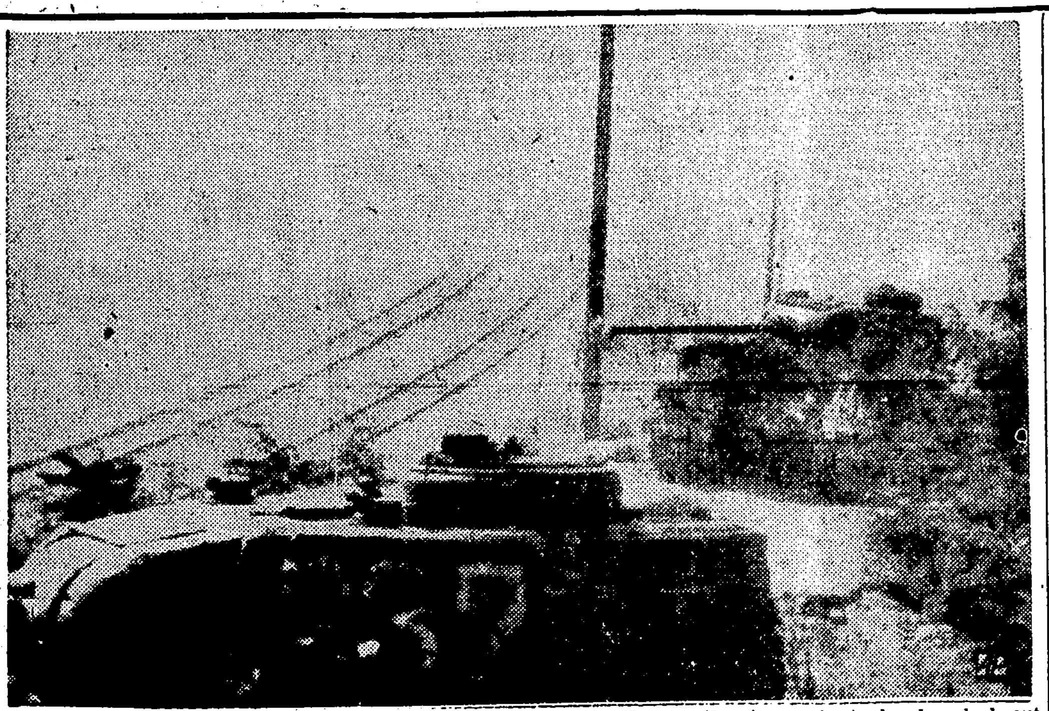
General MacArthur announced the appointment last midnight of Walker, chief of the Eighth Army in Japan, as commander of ground forces in Korea.

The Eighth Army has set up an advanced command post in Korea and taken over the job of U. S. Army Forces in Korea (USAFIK). The latter command was abolished. Walker commanded the famed armored "Ghost Corps" of General George Patton's Third Army in Europe. He was cited by Britain and praised by the U. S. War department (now the Department of the Army) for his coordination of infantry and armored groups.

Walker made a flying visit to the Korean fighting front Saturday. MacArthur did not say if Walker would return to Korea.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air Force Chief of Staff, conferred here with MacArthur and, presumably, with Walker.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, commander in chief for the Navy in the Pacific, was flying from Pearl Harbor to Tokyo to confer with MacArthur.



RED TANKS KNOCKED OUT—Two thirty-three ton North Korean Russian-made tanks knocked out somewhere in the American sector on the Western sector of the front in South Korea. It is believed these tanks were disabled by Allied air attacks. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Tokyo.)

southeast of Seoul, and at Ochon, 8 miles west of Chonan.

B-29 superforts also were in the air, bombing bridges in areas north of Seoul.

An Australian fighter group flying F-51s also raked over the Chonan area and was credited with destroying 8 tanks, 6 trucks and 2 large warehouses.

The communique gave the following score for Wednesday's air operations:

	Destroyed	Damaged
Tanks	38	3
Trucks	82	56
Locomotives	4	0
Jeeps	4	3
Halftracks	5	2
Other Vehicles ..	11	15

Wednesday's total brings to more than 150 the number of enemy tanks the air force claims to have knocked out since it began full scale operations June 27.

'poosh' from the other side. You wonder what's going on. Then you figure it out. The air is getting them."

He said he would like to see the old "jug birds" (F-47 Thunderbolts) working over the enemy as they worked against the Germans. Jet fighters weren't meant for this kind of business he said, but a "jug bird with 500 pound bombs would really give them a jolt."

Sun Glasses Give Eye Insurance

MISS SUNGLASSES..She wears "sun lashies," gay specs with plastic eyelashes.

EYES RIGHT.....Flex-fit bars help to adjust glasses to suit the face.

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

If you've been getting frequent headaches this summer, and attributing them to heat, hard work or diet deficiency, you'd better check your eyes. Perhaps you've been using them a lot in bright sunlight without the protection of sunglasses.

Sunglasses are necessary to prevent a loss in your eye's sensitivity to light, says Dr. Robert H. Peckham, associate professor of research opthamology at Temple University. Dr. Peckham, who was a member of the Army-Navy Vision Committee during the war, says that "this loss of sensitivity to light results in a drop in visual acuity—sharpness of seeing—particularly at night." It is greatest the night after exposure to sunlight which uses up the visual purple—a chemical on the retina of the eye that is needed if you are to see—faster than the eye can restore it normally.

Researchers have found that whenever you are out in the bright sun for an extended time between the hours of 11 a. m. and 4 p. m. in the northern zones and between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. in southern zones, you should wear glasses. It is possible to lose from 50 to 90 per cent of night vision ability after prolonged unprotected exposure. The National Safety Council states that two-thirds of the automobile accidents occur after dark—many of these due to people with reduced "night vision."

Dr. Peckham says it is not necessary to buy expensive sunglasses—he claims the inexpensive glasses are just as effective and will not affect normal vision. He has determined that the density of color is the most important factor in sunglasses, since the purpose is to reduce the glare of reflected sunlight and in some cases, artificial light.

Sun glasses vary according to the purpose, he explains. During the war the Navy chose dark grey, the Army different shades of green and the Air Force brown-grey and sage green. Dr. Peckham suggests greenish-yellow, yellowish-green or blue-green lenses for flying and the beach; brownish grey lenses for mountain-climbing, skiing or snow shoeing; flesh-colored and "smoke" lenses for people such as green-eyed red-heads who are hyper-sensitive to sunlight. Amber lenses are effective around beaches and for flying but should never be used while driving since they distort color perception of traffic lights. Sun glasses should never be worn at night.

All sorts of sun glasses are available in beautiful and flattering shades and at budget prices, so that no sun basker should be without them. There are flex-fit glasses with bars that bend at the temples and ears for the hard-to-fit, "sun-lashes"—glasses with plastic eyelashes which lend a new fashion note, and any number of other smart colorful sunglasses to suit any girl.

INDUSTRIAL

Since then it has been increased to $300,000.

Shares were sold at $50 each, and 300 individuals, banks and businesses bought the shares. Bell said all three of Tyler's banks co-operated in the venture and he said it proved that in order to have a successful foundation the banks of a city must work together.

"The industrial fund," he said, "resulted in close co-operation of the banks and as a result many other fine ventures have been started in Tyler."

Bell said the Chamber of Commerce had to work closely with the industrial fund and furnish much of the leg work.

He explained the rental agreements of the Tyler fund and said it operated under two plans.

Under one set-up, a long-term lease not more than 14 years, is given on a building and the operator pays a rental of 6 per cent of the cost plus taxes, insurance, depreciation, etc.

Under the other plan, the renter pays 10 per cent of the cost, and the fund pays the taxes, etc. The renter has the option to buy at any time.

The total payrolls of the five plants brought to Tyler by the industrial fund is $1,830,000 annually and they employ 605 persons. Taxes paid the city amounted to $43,600.

The two which came to Tyler through indirect action of the fund employ 125 persons and have annual payrolls of $305,000.

"Co-operation is the success word of any industrial foundation," Bell said, and he advised his listeners not to grow old, but to grow up.

He said as a result of the industrial fund, an agriculture council was set up in the same manner and that this has done much to develop the agricultural program of Tyler's area.

The speaker was introduced by Joe Butler, who was introduced by CC Pres. Festus A. Pierce.

It was announced at the meeting that the city-wide health meeting would be held in the city hall at 7:30 p. m. Friday, and that the State Orphans Home band would present a concert on the school's campus at 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

RED FLEET

as its main job the potential duty of cutting the Asiatic-Indonesian lifeline along which the United States would send help in event of general war in the Orient.

An almost equally important mission is to carry on reconnaissance of American and British naval ships, transport and air movement in the Western Pacific and the inland seas bordering Eastern Asia.

If there have been any sightings of suspicious actions by Russian submarines in those waters, the Pentagon has kept it secret.

The Red navy apparently is basing its Far East submarine fleet at a number of ports, rather than a few major ports, in the Soviet-controlled areas.

The reason for this may not be dictated entirely by strategy. The dispersal probably is caused in part by the fact that harbor facilities are limited at any one port.

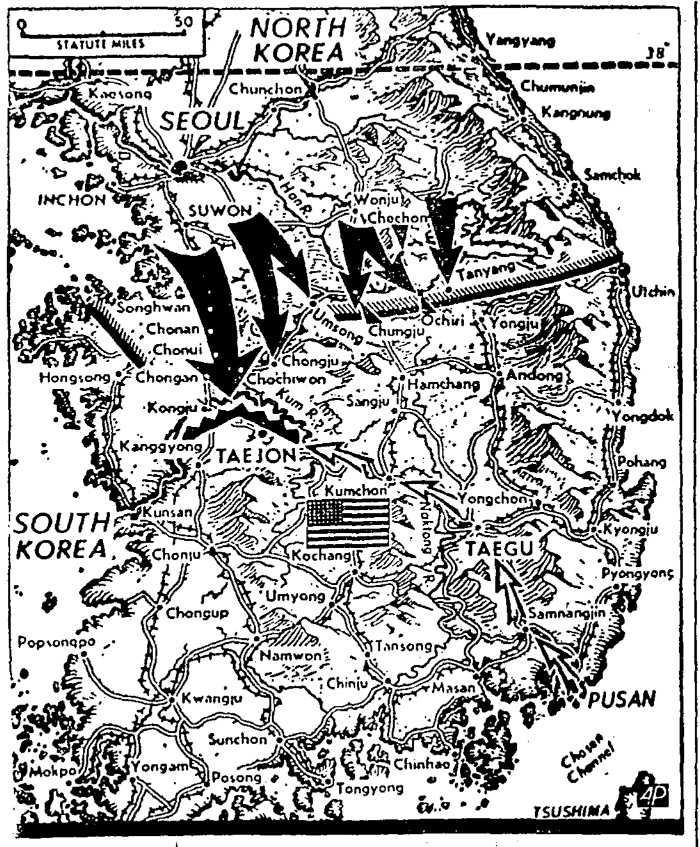
The bases used by the Red subfleet are believed to include the excellent ports of Darien, in Manchuria, on the Yellow Sea; horbors on Sakhalin Island, directly to the north of Japan; the big base of Vladivostok; Okhotsk, a port in the northwest corner of the sea of the same name; naval installations along the Kamchatka peninsula and to the north along the Siberian mainland.

The latter two areas face, at easy cruising range, the United States' Aleutians Isands, the outermost of which Japan seized easily at the beginning of World War II.

Russia's Far Eastern submarine fleet is part of a total force esimated to run as high as 350 submersibles of types ranging from old wartime models to the latest Snorkels.

(A Snorkel is capable of running underwater with its Diesel engines swiftly and for long periods by use of an extended "breathing" tube to the surface.)

The United States has indicated plainly it is thinking seriously about the submarne menace in the Western Pacific. Within the last few days the carrier Bataan left for that area. The Bataan had been converted from a strictly combat carrier to a specialized type for launching submarine-hunting planes.



REDS IN ACTION ALL ALONG KOREAN FRONT—Dark arrows show drives by invading North Korean forces on virtually the entire Korean battlefront. Red push in the west has forced U. S. troops to Kum River's south bank where they hope to make a stand (wedge) north of Taejon, key defense center, until enough material can be brought up to counterattack. Open arrows indicate the main supply route from port city of Pusan to the front. (AP Wirephoo.)

name this time," said Staff Sgt. William M. Kofmehl, Spokane, Wash., tail gunner on our abortive flight and veteran of the European air war. "But mebbe it's better to get it over with now instead of getting pushed around all the time like we've been doing."

They know they have the planes and the experience to master this kind of war—and they know, too, what is was like for the infantrymen on the ground, most of them untested before two weeks ago, to be outnumbered and outgunned.

"I sure hope our bombs help," Tech Sgt. Robert Asher told Flint O. Dupre, a former Dallas newspaperman. Dupre as FEAF Public Information officer flew in one of the planes reaching the target. Asher, engineer on that ship, comes from Riverside, Calif.

Dupre said that over the target area the weather closed in so tightly that his aircraft commander, Lt. Norman B. Hemmingway, 732-Northwest Miami Court, Miami, Fla., had to climb 500 feet to be sure of avoiding his wing plane.

The bombers were skittish, each was loaded with 10 tons of explosives, and precision flying as well as precesion bombing was essential. One squadron of the B-29s carried more than three times the weight of explosives carried by the famous B-24s of World War II.

The B-29s walked out gingerly to the runway and were flagged off on a precision schedule.

"Looks like the start of a dog race," said Lt. James S. Murphy, Columbus, O., a veteran of the B-17 war in Europe. Then he laid down a steel flak suit for me to sit on, just behind the cockpit.

"It'll keep the bullets out of your behind," he remarked.

They were like that, these young-old men, back in war and resigned to it, confident of their machines—yet wary. They had been briefed seriously—on their mission of blasting out war potential, and on their opponents.

Tech Sgt. Joseph C. Goslin, Spokane, Wash., a naval aircraft engineer during the last war, came out to the plane with a paper showing pictures of the bodies of American doughboys shot with their hands tied behind their backs.

"Looks like they're teaching us early," he said.

They knew. Patrick, at 27 a veteran of 42 missions over the hump in China, said, strapping on a revolver:

"If they knock us down, be careful what Koreans you trust—Try to pick out the old ones because they might remember something of Democracy."

The planes carried men like Staff Sgt. William T. Ayers, a tail gunner of Jonesboro, Ark, and Orville, Wash. He was shot down in Europe and imprisoned by the Germans in World War II.

And yet what happened when our No. 4 motor started spouting oil?

"Nuts," said Patrick, "this is a fine way to make your first mission."

"Come on," said Capt. James L. Sefton, Bloomington, Ind., "we can make it on three engines. Come on, let's go."

But Patrick decided against it when we started losing a gallon of oil every three seconds. We cut out the offending motor and circled over the ocean to drop our bombs.

They made a white ringworm on the blue sea.

"Nice shooting, Jimmy," someone said.

"Yeah," said Sefton. "They would have been that way on the target too."

The word spread through the plane and gunners got glum even when they relaxed their vigil.

"All that work," said Lt. John B. Wood, Jr., Utica, Pa., the navigator. "It took us two days to load those bombs."

With our bombs gone, we weighed around 114,000 pounds and were considered safe for landing.

The crew trailed off the plane like a losing football team.

"Wait until next time," Patrick promised.

Doctors Trained By U. S. Urged To Volunteer

CHICAGO, July 13—(AP)—Doctors trained at government expense during and since World War II were urged today to volunteer their services for use when needed by the armed forces.

"The American Medical Association xxx feels that these young men have a moral responsibility to come forward immediately to offer their services for use when needed," an AMA spokesman said.

Dr. James C. Sargent of Milwauke, chairman of the AMA council on National Emergency Medical service, added that "many thousands" of physicians were deferred during the last war to complete their educations and other thousands were educated at government expense in ASTP and V-12 programs.

American Reds Set For Terror

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—A house spy hunter asserts that American Communists, under orders from Moscow, are "all set to start a reign of terror" in event of war between this country and Russia.

Rep. Nixon (R-Calif) told reporters that files of the un-American Activities Committee reveal a "virtual blueprint" for revolutionary action.

Nixon, ranking Republican member of the committee, said the blueprint includes instructions on how to contaminate food supplies, wreck trains, seize arsenals and cities, and sabotage defense plants and utilitfies in major industrial cities.

Ingredients—3 small South African lobster tails, 1 small onion, 1 clove garlic, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon cayenne pepper, 1-2 cup sour cream.

Method—Plunge South African lobster tails into boiling, salted water to cover. When water returns to boil, cover pan and simmer gently 15 minutes or until tender. When cool, remove meat carefully from shells, cutting through thin undershell with kitchen shears. Put lobster meat through food chopper using finest blade, together with onion and garlic. Blend in rest of ingredients. Chill thoroughly and refill into shells. Serve on crackers or melba toast.

CORSICANA, TEX., JULY 14, 1950

NURSES' LIVES

Florence Nightengale, whose view of the nursing profession which she founded was strictly humanitarian and entirely self-denying, still has many followers today. A report on the huge old municipal hospitals in New York City pointd out that while much publicity was recently given the resignations of large numbers of nurses because of low pay, crowded conditions and general frustration, 65 per cent have remained to carry on this vital work. This group is animated by a wish to help the poor and suffering and itse members like the feeling of being needed.

In the nursing profession, as in other walks of life, there are, however, comparatively few people who are financially able to live unselfishly and work without thought of material reward. This problem should be viewed realistically and every effort made to pay nurses adequate salaries, to give them comfortable living conditions, and to see that they have all the help possible in discharging their arduous duties.

New hospitals are needed in many instances, with better and more cheerful surroundings for patients and nurses both. New York City is about to build and repair to the tune of $15,000,000. Smaller communities cannot do so much—nor do they need so much. But smaller ones need in proportion. Concentrating public attention is the great problem. When people see a real need, they usually do something about supplying it.

GOOD FENCES

When Robert Frost wrote, as though not quite believing it, "Good fences make good neighbors," he was thinking of boundary lines and utilitarian fences. Old-fashioned fences of the nineties and earlier stretched across the front of the lot, to keep out straying cattle and other invaders. Yet many of these were charming, often beautiful. An old rail or stone fence today is prized for its beauty.

Nowadays a fence is added as a decorative touch for house and garden, and oftener than not is draped with vines. A low wall of rough stone, laid dry, seems to ask for a woodbine to make it blaze with color in the fall. Climbing roses spilling over a fence lend beauty and fragrance to a whole neighborhood, and Heavenly Blue morning glories on a white picket fence give a pleasant glow to every passerby.

A fence can be so much more than a boundary, or barrier.

A VETO TO SUSTAIN

It takes courage to oppose a bill which aids a group of veterans, no matter what its contents. President Truman has shown this courage in vetoing a measure giving pay and promotion benefits to veterans entering the Post Office service since World War II. The House voted to override, but it may be suspected that some members who went along wished secretly for courage to oppose.

This bill does not provide benefits for all veteranas or even a fair proportion. Of the 15,000,000 who served in the war, only 100,000 are affected. Other government offices employ 800,000 veterans; they would not be helped. If the bill should be passed over the President's veto, these 800,000 would be discontented to see war associates get benefits which they do not. The bonanzas would be substantial, $100 annually for each year of military service.

An argument for giving promotion benefits to workers who served in the war is that they lost years during which they might have advanced at their jobs. This bill does not do this. It would raise the pay for a group of new employees who before the war were not in Post Office work.

A final argument against this measure is that much-talked-of point, economy. How can there ever be economy if new ways—especially unfair ones—are continually found to distribute the taxpayer's money?

Despite these sound considerations, the veterans affected are likely to cry that those who opposed the measure are against all ex-soldiers. Organizations of former service men may be misled into joining the outcry. The complaints are unsound; this veto deserves to stand.

FRANKED MAIL

It has been revealed in the House committee hearings on lobbying activities that some ten million pieces of mail of a private lobby have been mailed at government expense under the franks of members of Congress. There is nothing illegitimate in a lobby's act of inducing legislators to mail out their literature, or on the part of congressmen in doing so. But the incident sheds an additional ray of light on the perennial inability of the Post-Office Department to live within its budget.

Probably it would not make sense to require government offices and members to Congress to put postage stamps on their mail. But it is quite possible that important savings would result if better controls were established over free mailings, with government offices and other holders of the franking privilege required to account for the amount of matter mailed.

LESS LIQUOR CONSUMED

Americans are spending less for liquor, says the Department of Commerce. Not only was the 1949 expenditures less than that of 1948, but 1948 showed a drop from 1947. Lest anyone be too elated, 1947 was the all-time top year for drinking in the history of the nation. The figures are $9,640,000,000 in 1947, $8,800,000,000 in 1948 and $8,550,000,000 in 1949.

Regardless of their attitude toward prohibition or drinking generally, few Americans will regret to see a decline in liquor consumption. Even with the decline, the figures seem appallingly high, $57.50 for each person in the country.

With this much money to spend on something that at best is purely recreational and at worst is harmful, why do we complain so strongly about high taxes?

Maybe because taxes at best can never be called recreational.

In South Africa one tribe requires its public speakers to stand on one foot while spouting forth. As soon as the other foot slips to the ground the speech is automatically over. What a boon this rule would be in Washington and at luncheon meetings everywhere.

Labor is confusing stuff. When you pay to have a job done, its cost is frequently substantial. When you do the same job yourself, it costs nothing — except a lot of time and energy, and probably a large bill at the hardware store for new tools.

WEDDING PROBLEMS

What ever does the bachelor do
With wedding invitations?
How choose the one, when there are two,
Same hour, but different stations?
Who tells him all about the groom
Or who's to be the bride,
And in the gay reception room
Keeps him with names supplied?

How does the bachelor know just what
To buy for this or that one?
Shall it be crystalware or not,
Or silver piece—a flat one?
With neither wife nor daughters wise
To follow Emily Post.
How does he know the gift he buys
Is what is wanted most?

Does he go shopping for himself,
The various stores exploring,
For things to line the pantry shelf
Or pots for coffee pouring?
My daughters do the work for me
When there are gifts to send.
Since lonely must the bachelor be,
On whom does he depend?

Judge Sheppard Hikes Fines For Speeders Brought Into His Court

Speeders will get no sympathy in the future from Justice of the Peace J. W. Sheppard.

Henceforth, all speeders brought before Judge Sheppard will be fined $1 for each mile-per-hour rate above the limit.

For example, a motorist who drives 50 miles-per-hour through a 25 MPH zone, will be fined $25 plus court costs. These costs usually run about $9.

So, a speeder who drives his car 25 miles an hour above the speed limit will draw a total of $34 in fine and costs.

It has been customary to fine speeders $1 and costs, or about $10.

But, as Judge Sheppard says, speeding is on the increase. In precinct 1 justice court the past two weeks, some 50 persons have been fined for the violation.

During June, highway patrolmen gave approximately 85 tickets to speeders—the chief cause of accidents.

Regular speed limits on the highway are 60 MPH for cars, 45 MPH for trucks, in the day time; at night it is 55 MPH for cars.

The judge's plans may slow down many speeders, if it works like one he adopted for drunkards. "Repeaters" were find up to $100. Soon they realized it paid them to stay off the bottle—or get out of precinct 1 to do their drinking.

Justices of the peace have the power to fine persons up to $200.

Fifty Increase In Corsicana Census Figures

There's a strong possibility that Corsicana's 1950 census count may be increased by 50 or more when the final figures are released later this year.

Mrs. Tom Westbrook, III, recently completed a survey of persons who said they were missed during the census count and has turned in a list of 51 whom it is believed will be added to the preliminary total.

When she started on the job she had a list of more than 200 who stated they'd been missed in the census. By checking records and making personal calls, she discovered that all but 55 had been included.

Her final reports will be sent to the Census Bureau Washington D. C., where they'll be checked against the census reports.

Corsicana's preliminary census total was 19,108.

Fire Damage To Three Houses

Fires which caused an estimated damage of $1,200 destroyed one small house and damaged two others at 4:40 p. m. Wednesday. Chief Howard Bivins said the fire started in the residence of Laura Roberts, negress, 107 South Fourth street. He added this blaze caught a house at 105 South Fourth street, occupied by Bessie Shedd, negress, and one at 805 East Collin street, occupied by Rachael Robertson, negress. Corsicana School Board To Press Tax Collections

Action to collect all delinquent taxes in the Corsicana school system will begin August 1, the board of education decided at a meeting Tuesday night.

Only about $12,000 is classified delinquent, while $197,000 has been collected during the past school year, but the board is following up its previously announced policy to be "firm" in its tax program.

The firm of Hutchins & Weeden was employed to handle the collections at a compensati not to exceed the penalty and interest due—and in no way to exceed 15 per cent of the amount collected.

The contract signed by board members with L. E. Weeden, county delinquent tax attorney, goes into effect ugust 1 for one year. Weeden appeared before the board at its session and explained the firm's methods, which include court action.

The board's meeting could well be termed a "money-spending" session, because the trustees approved several equipment purchases recommended by Supt. W. H. Norwood, and voted to replace the oil-type heating system at Robert E. Lee school with gas facilities—at a cost of some $1,000.

Doyle West explained, though, that the Lee project would result in a $200 annual saving, that the school now was in need of an oil burner which would cost $500. Failure to replace the burner would cost the system about $500 during the year in heat inefficiency, West explained suggesting that gas could be installed at the $1,000 figure at a considerable saving.

Norwood recommended purchase of five typewriters, two movie projector machines, a phonograph for the High school commercial department, typewriter covers, a program clock (bell system), for Jackson High school, black window shades for the CHS movie room, and three filing cabinets.

The board approved all but the typewriters, which will be considered later, and the phonograph and projectors.

Plans were discussed for cleaning the rust from under Tiger Field stadium seats and painting the steel with aluminum paint. Bids received on the project ran from $600 to $1900. The matter was turned over to West for further investigation.

An $1100 dishwasher for the cafeteria at Travis school was approved as recommended by C. E. Middleton.

A member of the board's "baseball committee," Middleton revealed the trustees' plans for acquiring a playground site on the Magnolia Pipeline Co. property south of town. Another Southwest Corsicana site was considered but property owners objected through a petition forwarded to the board.

Other action taken by the board:

Elected Miss Carolyn Dublin as second grade teacher at Lee school to replace Mrs. Cliff Turner, who has resigned.

Voted to require users of the CHS auditorium to accept the responsibility for damage they may cause.

Authorized use of Bear Park (negro) for a county political speaking Saturday night.

Members attending the meeting were Mrs. H. R. Stroube, B. W. Woolley, Mrs. F. A. Pierce, Embry S. Ferguson, West, Middleton and Norwood.

Corsicana's milk dealers and dairies have brought a high honor to the city by having complied with the national milk ordinance and code in such a way that the city has been awarded a Standard Milk Ordinance Honor Roll certificate.

The recognition means that Corsicana is one of the few cities in Texas which has passed the tests required by the ordinance.

The ratings awarded are as follows:

Retail raw milk, 100 per cent; raw milk sold to plants, 87.9 per cent; pasteurization plants, 91.7 per cent; pasteurized milk, 90.4 per cent, and enforcement methods, 96 per cent.

The award was granted on the fact that compliance in excess of 90 per cent was made in both raw milk and pasteurized milk and milk products.

Threat Of Rail Strike This Week Finally Averted

CHICAGO, July 13.—(AP)—The threat of a railroad strike next weekend was lifted when a third union today announced it will "forego for the present" a walkout.

M. G. Schoch, president of the Railroad Yardmasters of America, telegraphed this notice to President Truman in reply to recommendations of a presidential fact-finding board for settlement of a dispute between the union and the carriers.

Findings "Disgrace."

Schoch, calling the "board's findings "a disgrace to the emergency board procedure," added they should and must be rejected."

However, "our yardmasters are aware of the situation in which our country finds itself today x x they will not fail in this present emergency." Schoch said the Yardmasters will renew negotiations.

The union, which has been asking a 40-hour week for 48 hours pay, represents about 65 per cent of the nation's 9,500 yardmasters.

Two other big operating unions earlier had announced they would refrain from striking when all three became eligible to leave their jobs Saturday.:

Federal mediators will renew attempts on Friday to resolve issues in the long wage and hour dispute between the nation's railroads and the two Brotherhoods.

Officials of the two unions, represening some 225,000 rail workers, said they will meet with the National (Railway) Mediation board to "try and bring about a settlement." They said the carriers will be represented at the sessions.

The unions—the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors—are legally free to strike after Saturday. But W. P. Kennedy, president of the Trainmen, said "we won't consider a strike at this time. It will depend on the attitude of the railroads. x x x."

Strike Not Called.

However, he added that "the idea of a strike hasn't been put aside, but a strike has not been put into effect."

Announcement of the delay of a strike followed a two-day meeting of 250 general chairmen of the two unions. The chairman formally rejected a Presidential fact-finding board's recommendation in the dispute. The board had turned down the unions' request for a 40 hour work week at 48 hours pay.

The chairmen termed the board's report the "most undemocratic, unfair and pro-management report in the history of the Railway Labor Act." The formal rejection was telegraphed to President Truman.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

There it Was—Right in The Middle!

Easy Roberts mowed his lawn early last Saturday. Then he sat on the porch, and watched Handy Peterson cutting his grass.

The Roberts' property and the Peterson's border each other—with no hedge or fence between them. So, when Easy notices Handy had left about a four-foot strip unmowed along the boundary, he walks over and asks why.

"That's your land," says Handy. "Mine ends here. See, it lines up with that oak tree across the road!" Easy didn't think so, so they went up and down looking for the surveyor's marker. Where did they find it? Right in the middle of their "no man's land!"

Well, they both grin and take turns finishing the job and then retreat to Easy's for a friendly glass of beer together. From where I sit, a little searching around for the truth of the matter often shows that the other fellow is as much right as you are—at which point the whole thing doesn't seem as important anyway.

BOYLE'S Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK, July 13—(AP)—There is a growing uneasiness among army veterans that the American expedition in Korea may end in another dunkerque.

Time, they feel, is fighting right now on the side of the heavily armoured North Koreans—and against the lighter-armed U. S. forces.

One retired high-ranking officer I talked to felt that only an immediate mobilization of manpower and industry could stave off disaster in Korea—and perhaps other fronts to follow. He is one of the most experienced veterans of the last war, having fought in Africa, Sicily and Europe.

Matter of Mathematics

"We'll be lucky in Korea if we aren't pushed right back into the sea," he said. "The situation there is simply a matter of mathematics.

"So for we've had to send a boy to do a man's work. We've had to throw in a couple of companies here—a battalion there—and watch them get chrewed to pieces. It's the same thing we did at Kasserine Gap—feed small units in one at a time to be destroyed."

This officer felt there was real doubt whether enough reinforcements could be put into the field in time to avoid a complete withdrawal from Korea.

He pointed out that the North Koreans had bucked 100 miles in slightly more than two weeks—and that another 100-mile advance would carry them to the tip of the peninsula.

"We may be able to hold a defensive beachhead in the South, where the terrain is pretty mountainous," he said. "But it will be terribly difficult.

Eight Divisions Needed

"The battleline is about 125 to 135 miles wide. To do the job right we ought to have at least six good divisions on the line—and two in reserve. That means eight divisions at the least. And eight divisions is an army—150,000 men or more.

"Where can we get that many men without mobilizing? We have only 12 divisions now all told, and they're stretched all around the world from Tokyo to Berlin."

What worried him also is the fact Russia has a reported 85 divisions in being, and some 200 more in reserve.

"She is just throwing a left jab at us in Korea, testing us out," he said. "And she isn't even using her own men—she's using satellite troops."

Spot Zoning Is Given Slow Sign By Supreme Court

AUSTIN, July 13.—(AP)—The Supreme court has flagged a "Go Slow" sign on spot zoning by Texas cities.

It affirmed a trial court ruling that voided a San Antonio amendatory ordinance changing a zone from family to apartment house classification.

The original suit to block the change was brought by Frances S. Weaver and others against Roy L. Ham and others.

"The power to carry conditions of a zoning ordinance should be sparingly exercised," Associate Justice John H. Sharp wrote.

The city, he said, has the power to change its basic zoning ordinance, but this power disappears "when the facts show and it was determined by the trial court that the city acted arbitrarily and unreasonably and abused its discretion."

The Weaver suit contended that there was no evidence to justify the change, that the city's act was one of spot zoning and therefore was void, and that the action was deterimental to the general public. It was upheld in trial court and reversed in the court of civil appeals. The Supreme Court agreed with the trial court's holding.

Farm Talk—

Farmers Who Ignored Cotton Acreage Quotas Can Expect Worst From U. S.

By CLYDE JOHNSON
Daily Sun Staff.

Farmers who knowingly "overplanted" their cotton acreage allotment for 1950 can expect the worst from Uncle Sam.

A 15 1-2 cents per pound penalty on the excess cotton produced will be levied, it was announced this week.

"Until the penalty is paid, all cotton produced on the farm is subject to the penalty, and a lien on the entire crop will be in effect in favor of the United States," says the Production and Marketing Administration.

But that's not all. The farmer can be declared ineligible for payments and other benefits from the Agricultural Conservation program.

However, it is believed Navarro county farmers have followed closely all the rules and regulations handed down by the PMA.

So it is doubtful any farmer will have to take up stakes and move to the city—which would probably happen if he were denied the valuable farm program benefits.

Speaking of the agricultural program, a farmer who opposes the benefits is as rare as a Communist in Wall Street. But one such critic writes us:

"I have received thousands of dollars from the government for plowing under cotton and destroying livestock, which they made me do.

"They pay me a lot of money each year for ditching I must do.

"They pay me for putting up fences that I need; they pay me for planting cover crops which I have always done.

"They buy my winter peas at 6 cents a pound and sell them back to me at 3 cents a pound.

"Then they take 75 cents out of every dollar I earn in income taxes, and a lot more by indirect taxation.

"And they try to make me believe they are helping me!"

This farmer happens to own a silver mine, a plantation or two in Mississippi, and shares the wealth of industries.

Many farmers would be glad to keep only a dime of every dollar they earn—if they earned enough of those dollars.

The "weed-killer" situation revealed earlier this week has grown worse—about 15 cotton fields have been contaminated by the chemical.

Unless adequate control of the poison is effected, legal action may be taken by damaged farmers—as was done once against rice growers in South Texas.

County Agent W. H. Walker blames "promiscuous use" of weed-killer for the alarming damage done to cotton, which the chemical destroys. Widespread individual use of the poison is reported under way at this time, with many inexperienced people applying it.

New Car Dealers Also Wondering What Is Ahead

FORT WORTH, July 13.—(AP)—New car dealers are just like purchasers—they don't know what's ahead for the auto business.

As directors of the Texas Automobile Dealers Association gathered for a meeting the talk dealt with "possibilities" of slashes in car output and elimination of chrome and gadgets to conserve metal.

No Word Yet

But the dealers said they, and their factories, have as yet received no official word from Washington to go on a war footing.

"We don't expect an immediate cut-off of new cars even if Detroit begins turning out tanks and other war equipment," said Tom Abbott of Fort Worth, TADA president.

"There probably would be a tapering off, with small quotas assigned to dealers. Plants can't convert to war production overnight and the government would try to avoid dislocating such a big industry like the auto business."

To Avoid Gouging

If the car prices rise because of the war threat, the TADA will step in and try to avoid price-gouging, Abbott said.

"The industry got some unfavorable publicity in the last warr. We want to avoid it in this one," he said.

Abbott declared the TADA has no enforcement powers over dealers, but would appeal to their patriotism and business judgment.

Increased buying of new cars reported in some parts of the state is not widespread, Abbott said. Most dealers are reporting business as usual despite the war scare.

Information On National Service Life Insurance

Instructions concerning waiver of National Service Life Insurance premiums have been received by Robert C. Reeder, contact representative of the Veterans Administration office, who has an office in Corsicana.

Reeder said American servicemen totally disabled during the Korean war may be eligible to have premiums waived if the disability lasts six consecutive months.

"The waiver," he said, "would go into effect upon application, after the six month period was over, and would remain in effect as long as the total disability continued."

Veterans who hold NSLI also are eligible for waivers if they become totally disabled before they reach 60 and while thier policy is in force. This disability also has to be of at least six straight months duration.

Total disability, as defined in a NSLI policy is "any impairment of mind or body which continuously renders it impossible for the insured to follow any substantially gainful occupation."

Reeder pointed out that waivers of premiums are not automatic. Instead, he said, application to the VA must be made, if possible, immediately following the six-month disability period.

He also said a person who applies for waiver of premiums should continue to pay his premiums as they fall due until he receives notice from the VA of entitlement to waiver.

Virginia Mayo Declares War On Style Dictators

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, July 13.—(AP)—Virginia Mayo, leading a one-girl revolt against the "fashion dictators," says women dress better in St. Louis, Dallas and Chicago than in the so-called style centers of New York and California.

Its' all her own idea and there was no press agent to push her along.

Will Suit Self.

"I think women are foolish to follow blindly what they are told to wear by a small group of designers and manufacturers. I have decided to go against the trend and not follow their dictation. I am going to wear what I want, even if I become known as 'Miss Dowdy of 1950.'"

Attacking the issue geographically, she observed that women in New York are inclined to overdress.

"They think that real style means a display of extravagance—bright and heavy jewelry, expensive fur coats, large and unusual hats. But that isn't style. They merely look, as my husband says, like well-kept graves."

On the other side of the continent, California women are underdressed, she declared.

Extreme Informality.

"I don't mind informality, but California women carry it too far. I think it's all right for women to go without hats, but I believe gloves are a mark of good grooming. You seldom see them out here."

Where then, I asked would be the happy medium of good grooming—somewhere in mid-continent?

"That's right," she answered. "Take my home town—St. Louis. The women know how to dress smartly there. That's also true of Dallas and Chicago."

Reporter Says Chinese Reds In Korean Fighting

BALTIMORE, July 13.—(AP)—The Sunpapers' Phillip Potter radioed from Korea that a division of enemy troops tentively identified as "Chinese" Communists landed Tuesday below American lines on the east coast.

The correspondent qualified the identification. He also pointed out it has been officially established: 1. North Korean troops killed in an air raid last week were wearing Chinese Communist uniforms. 2. At least one division of North Koreans formerly operated with the Communists in Manchuria.

(There has been no official reference to the presence of Chinese Communist troops in Korea.

(A communique released by General MacArthur in Tokyo said a new enemy division had appeared in the Chungju area and identified it as the 15th North Korean Division.

"It is reported," said the communique, "to have a large number of Koreans who previously have been fighting with the Chinese Communist forces in Manchuria.")

Potter attributed his identification to a U. S. army major who has been serving with the Korean military advisory group and is now an American liaison officer with South Korean forces.

(Washington authorities were inclined to discount the report.)

104 American Cities Estimated Now In 100,000-Up Population Group

By CHARLES MOLONEY

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—Preliminary census returns show that 104 American cities now have a population above 100,000. That's a dozen more than made the 100,000-up class in 1940, with a few more still to be heard from.

Census Bureau officials said today one city in the group for 1940 had shrunk below it in 1950—Lowell, Mass. Lowell asked a recheck after the preliminary count showed a population decline from 101,38 in 1940 to 80,427 this year.

Baton Rouge Jumps.

On the other side of the picture; Baton Rouge, La., scored a spectacular population climb, from 33,719 in 1940 to 123,954 this year, a jump of 257 per cent.

The major cities for which figures still are unavailable are Philidalphia, Houston, San Antonio, Albany, N. Y.; and Wichita, Kas.

If Philadelphia maintains its place as the nations' third largest city—something census analysts expect—the nation's top ten cities will line up as:

1 New York 7,841,610; 2. Chicago 3,631,835; 3. Philadelphia (1,931,334 in 1940); 4. Los Angeles 1,954,036; 5. Detroit 1,837,613; 6. Baltimore 939,865; 7. Cleveland 909,546; 8. St. Louis 852,253; 9. Washington, D. C., 792,234; 10. Boston 788,552.

This year Los Angeles passed Detroit, Baltimore passed Cleveland and Washington jumeped to 9th place from 11th in 1940, pushing Boston to 10th place from 9th.

Pittsburgh Ousted.

Pittsburgh, with 673,756 residents, was pushed out of the top ten to 12th place. San Francisco, formerly 12th, moved up to 11th on a count of 760,439. Milwaukee held 13th with 632,938.

Cities making the biggest population gains for the most part have been in the West, Southwest, South and mountain states. Declining populations have been shown mostly in New England and the Middle Atlantic.

Cities with 500,000-plus populations reported so far are: Buffaloo 576,506; New Orleans, 568,407, and Minneapolis 517,410. Houston, which had a 1940 population of 384,314, is expected to land in the over 500,000 group this time.

In the 400,000-up class come Cincinnati 499,749; Seattle 462,981; Kansas City 453,290; Newark 437,833; Dallas 432,805; Indianapolis 424,683, and Denver 412,823.

300,000 Group.

Speed Limit Of 45 Miles Per Hour Between Ennis And Corsicana Set

A 45-mile per hour speed limit has been authorized by the Texas Highway commission for Highway 75 from one mile north of Corsicana to one mile south of the city limits of Ennis. Officers will patrol the area to enforce the regulation, according to the announcement.

A. J. Dooley, Texas highway department maintenance superintendent here, made the announcement.

The section of the highway is under repair at the present time, with bridges being widened and bad places and breaks in the pavement being repaired. A number of workmen are involved.

One workman was killed and another injured on a highway near Hillsboro last week when a vehicle struck workers repairing the road.

"This regulation by the highway department will be enforced," Dooley stated.

The regular legal speed limit on the highways of Texas is 60 miles per hour in daytime and 55 miles at night unless local conditions require a lesser speed.

Dooley said signs calling motorists' attention to the reduced speed limit were being placed each mile along the route affected.

Auto Industry Expects 200,000 Cars This Week

By DAVID J. WILIKIE

DETROIT, July 13—(AP)—The auto industry may build more than 200,000 vehicles this week.

If the figure is realized it will be the first time in auto industry history that many vehicles have been built in a single week.

Where auto production goes from here depends largely upon the international situation and the amount of steel that continues available for civilian production.

Scare-Buying Spotty

The situation with respect to war-scare buying appears to be somewhat spotty throughout the country. Some sections report a rush to place new car orders and brisk demand for late model used cars. A few report little reaction that can be traced directly to the Korean war and its possibilities.

The trade paper Automotive News which made a survey a few days ago reports that so far there has been no widespread boosting of used car prices. It notes, however, that contrary to normal trends used car prices have been holding steady for some time. Normally prices would have been sliding all through June with a sharp dip after July 4.

Generally the average of used car prices has been about the same as it was a month ago.

Thought Influenced

Of course this condition cannot be counted upon to continue indefinitely. The Korean outbreak has had a very definite influence on thinking among would-be car buyers. Its influence on new and used car demand will increase as long as it remains a threat to world peace.

Encountering difficulty getting delivery of new cars many would-be buyers will turn to the used car dealers. That could create a shortage of good used cars. Such a shortage automatically means higher prices.

But few persons close to the industry anticipate any skyrocketing of used car prices. Only a complete shutdown of the auto factories could have that effect. If that happens thousands of individuals will be trying to sell their cars at big mark ups.

Pierce P. Brooks Spoke Wednesday To Local Voters

Pierce P. Brooks, Dallas business executive, candidate for nomination as lieutenant governor of Texas in the Democratic primaries, spoke in the interest of his candidacy here Wednesday afternoon. He was accompanied here by his musical caravan.

Brooks is campaigning for economy in state administration costs.

"Extravagance and waste of the taxpayers' money must stop," Brooks said," and the only way to stop it is by putting Texas on a business-like basis with a capable business man in the lieutenant governor's office."

The candidate cited the millions spent each month by the state. He suggested elimination of overlapping agencies, bureaus and commissions, with the attendant saving going to the old folks, the blind, institutions and educational system.

With the group were Ray Price, Al Dexter, a Navarro county product; the Melody Remblers, the Texas Safety Boys and the Brooks quartet.

Flour Is Used To Escape Fire

WINGATE, July 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Henry Adcock is alive today because she remembered having heard of a man who saved himself from fatal burns by spreading flour on the flames.

Fire broke out in her home here. A burning oil stove, which she and her husband had tried unsuccessfully to drag outside blocked one route of escape. Other exits were sheathed in flames.

Remembering the story of the flour, she ran to the flour barrel, began spreading flour on the fire, then closed her eyes and ran through the momentarily smothered flames.

It's A Home Project—

Here's An Interesting Hobby, If Your Backyard Is Large Enough To Construct a 143-Foot Oil Derrick

BY DON MORRISSEY
Daily Sun Staff.

Big oil derricks from pieces of steel grow—And a big derrick, 143 feet high, not counting the 10-foot sub-structure, recently was completed on a lot in Corsicana. Shortly after it was finished, it was trucked away to Southern Mississippi and now is working in an oil field operated by the Roeser-Pendleton Oil and Gas Co., of Fort Worth.

The builder, L. L. Temple, 1810 West First avenue, now is working on a 94-foot job for the Wise Drilling Account, Tyler. He said he thought this derrick would be put into operation in East Texas.

Temple has been building oil well derricks and oil well equipment since 1936. The 143-foot job was the sixth, and biggest, he has built in his yard on West First avenue. In fact. this was so big that he had to rent some land from a neighbor on Park avenue, the structure extending over his property line. The smallest derrick he has put together was a 74-footer.

During his oil-equipment days he has constructed four complete drilling rigs for United States oil men and two for the Mexican government.

He recalled that the two built for the Mexican government were put together in Houston. When completed they were loaded on railroad cars, and the builders had to guarantee delivery across the border.

Temple said one rig was unloaded in Mexico from the railroad cars, loaded on trucks and carted away.

When the workers came back for the second rig they discovered it had been stolen.

"Imagine that," he said, "a complete oil rig just disappeared. As far as I know, the Mexican government doesn't know where that rig is today."

All the derricks built by Temple are of the jackknife or self-raising type They are portable, and when not to be moved too far, they can be moved without lowering the structure.

These derricks are not guyed, Temple explained, but are bolted to the A-frame which serves as the base to hold it in place, as well as for raising and lowering the derrick itself.

When the big job was completed it required 11 trucks to cart it off the lot. Four of the trucks were used to carry the sub-structure.

The sub-structure of the 143-footer weighing 95,000 pounds, and the derrick and crown block weighed 43,000 pounds, with the crown block tipping the scales at five tons.

Temple said this type of derrick could be used to drill to a depth of 15,000 feet.

The West-end construction expert started work on this derrick last November and it was completed, but not assembled in April. Cold and wet weather slowed work for days at a time or the job probably would have been completed sooner, he said.

The derrick and sub-structure were completely assembled and painted by mid-May and moved off a short time later.

In the Southern Mississippi oil field, Temple ran into his first setting-up trouble he's ever had with any of his derricks.

He said the derrick was built for gasoline engines and when he arrived he found the gas engines were busy at another location. A steam engine was tied on and the erratic pulling power brought out some weaknesses in the A-frame.

"All along", Temple said, "I felt that crown block was too heavy for the structure, but that's what the company ordered and I was sure it would be okay under right conditions."

When the derrick started to rise, under the steam engine power, a portion of the A-frame buckled.

"We let it back down," Temple said, "and re-inforced the A-frame. From there on in we had no trouble at all."

In explaining the operations of the jackknife derrick, the builder said the same cables which are used for raising and lowering the structure are used during drilling operations.

"The cables are strung while the structure is on the ground," he said, "and tied into the power equipment."

During the construction of the 143-foot job, Temple used as many as three extra men. He and Ivy Stephens, 1815 West First avenue, are working alone on the 94-footer now under construction.

The derrick now being built is the second Temple has constructed for the Wise Drilling Account. He said he thought he'd have this completed in about two weeks.

The derrick now under construction weighs 15,000 pounds, including a 3,000-pound crown block. The sub-structure weighs 12,000 pounds. This will be used for drilling depths of 2,500 to 3,000 feet, Temple said.

Temple follows no plans or diagrams while building his derricks. He studies other derricks, notes important factors, and then changes and improves these points and incorporates them in his own construction jobs.

"When a company orders a derrick," he said, "I find out what they want, how big it is to be, what depths it will be used at, and what type of machinery they'll employ.

"Then I build it to fit their needs and their machinery."

Asked if he had any more orders after the present derrick is completed, he said:

"Well, no. I sort of hope to take it easy during the hot summer months.

"My wife and I plan to meet some relatives in Colorado after a bit, and then we may take a trip into Iowa and Ohio before we come back to Corsicana."

ROMANCE FINDS ITS PLACE IN GREAT SCRIPTURE LIBRARY

Story of Ruth Among Priceless Literary Gems—the Bible Gives Helpful Counsel to Suitors of Every Generation—Purity and Wholesome Home Life the Desired Ends

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS
and EARL L. DOUGLASS.

The Book of Ruth is above all else a story of family loyalty and its rich rewards. This ancient idyl—one of the world's acknowledged literary treasures—lifts out of real life a domestic picture which preserves the heroism and fidelity and romance of the common people.

Setting Up a New Home.

A Jewish peasant, Elimelech, together with his wife, Naomi, and their two sons, leaves his native land because of famine and settles in a foreign country of strange people and strange gods—the region of Moab, which is now ruled by King Abdullah. The sons marry native women—Orpah nad Ruth. The family is now well on the way to build a new life for itself in a strange environment when suddenly disaster strikes. The father and the two sons die. The three women are left alone without any means of support. Should they separate, each going back to former home and fireside, or should they try to stick it out together without breaking the precious family ties which have been built up over the years and are now their only possession?

The mother, Naomi, disillusioned and embittered by her misfortune urges the two girls to go back to their families. For herself, without home or relatives in Moab, her only hope is to go back to Israel. But there is no need for the girls to follow her. They have relatives in Moab. It would be a tremendous sacrifice for them to leave the homeland behind and take up life again in a strange country where they would be expected to worship a strange god.

Hard Choices.

Orpah, after tearful hesitation, takes Naomi's advice and goes back to her people, but Ruth, in a moving scene, decides to leave everything behind her and accompany her mother-in-law to Israel. "Entreat me not to leave thee," says Ruth to Naomi, "......for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people; and thy God my God. Where thou diest, will I die, and there will I be buried. Jehovah do so to me, and more also, if aught but death part thee and me."

This is an astonishing demonstration of family loyalty. Ruth, in a very real sense, gave up everything to follow her mother-in-law. But what was the result? She found a full and gratifying new life. Loyalty, an always, brought a rich reward.

Like all rural towns, Bethlehem was agog oer the return of Naomi and full of sympathy for her. But there remained before the two women the bitter necessity of earning their living. No longer was there a manly arm to provide for them. So Ruth, like countless other young women since, was faced with the problem of being a bread-winner. With Naomi's sage counsel to guide her, she became a gelaner in the fields of Boaz, a rich kinsman of Elimelech. She was favor of the harvesters as she toilsomely gathered the stray stalks of grain that they left behind in their primitive sickle-reaping. And she attracted the attention of Boaz, who ordered special indulgencies for her.

Romance By Arrangement.

Then, by a strategy born in the brain of her mother-in-law, she reminded Boaz of the duty of the next of kin to provide for a husbandless woman. Boaz took the matter before the elders for adjudication—so were such matters determined in Israel in the days of the Judges—and, a prior claim of another having been surrendered, Boaz took the fair Ruth to be his wife.

Soon the empty arms of Naomi were filled by a grandson. Life again took on its full meaning. Her bitterness was abated; though she could not know that the babe, Obed, whom she cherished, was destined to be the father of Jesse, and the grandfather of David, Israel's greatest king.

All this came to pass because of the loyal, noble, and selfess choice of Ruth. Little did she dream of the glorious consequences of her noble fidelity and self-abnegation. No one knows whither the paths he elects may lead him. But we may be sure that when we are true to our highest impulses and convictions we are on the road to undreamed blessing. Strange are the leadings of Providence but all who follow the dictates of love and loyalty will find themselves ultimately rewarded beyond their expectations.

In a day when many courtship customs place young people in dire moral peril, it is comforting to read a noble tale of clean romantic love such as one finds set forth in the book of Ruth.

"If only we strive to be pure and true,
To each of us there will come an hour,
When the tree of life will burst into flower,
And rain at our feet a glorious dower,
Of something grander than we ever knew."

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS.

Nothing is more noble, nothing more venerable than fidelity; faithfulness and truth are the most sacred excellences and endowments of the human mind.—Cicero.

To God, they country, and thy friend be true, and thou wilt ne'er be false to anyone.—Vaughan.

Who has not felt how sadly sweet
The dream of home, the dream of home,
Steals o'er the heart, too soon to fleet
When far o'er sea or land we roam.
—Moore.

The most essential element in any home is God.—Anonymous.

Ruth said, Entreat me not to leave thee, and to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God.—Ruth 1:16.

In man's most dark extremity
Oft succor dawns from heaven.

Human happiness has no perfect security but freedom; freedom none but virtue; virtue none but knowledge and neither freedom, virtue nor knowledge has any vigor or immortal hope excep in the principle of the Christian faith, and in the sanctions of the Christian religion.—Josiah Turncy.

RE-ELECT
Charles T. Banister
COUNTY ATTORNEY

To The Voters Of Navarro County:

I respectfully solicit your vote for re-election as County Attorney on the basis of the record which I have made since January 1, 1947 (3 1-2 years.)

In ten bitterly contested murder prosecutions, the results have been: one acquittal, one suspended sentence, two hung juries, and six terms in the penitentiary. Two of these cases were old, one dating back to 1944, the other back to the latter part of 1942. Penitentiary terms were obtained in both.

In two of ten contested County Court prosecutions, Navarro County records were broken for severity of penalty: a $300.00 fine and ten days in jail were assessed against a drunk driver; a bootlegger received a $1,000.00 fine and a year in jail. Experienced criminal lawyers represented both these Defendants. One hundred forty-five more pleas of guilty in the County Court have been obtained during the past 3 1-2 years than were had during the preceding 8 years.

Your County Attorney must be experienced in order to cope successfully with the criminal lawyers representing the Defendants. My opponent, a splendid young man, has been a lawyer one year and has not tried a contested case, civil or criminal, in either the County or District Court.

I attempted to qualify myself for a successful career by starting at the bottom, not at the top. After three years as a lawyer, I ran for and was elected City Attorney of Corsicana in 1931. I was re-elected for three terms. Promotion to the County Attorney's office was denied me in 1934 and in 1936, but was granted in 1938. I was re-elected in 1940. World War II interrupted my career and I resigned in 1942 after volunteering in the Navy, where I served 3 years 2 months. Trial experience before the war has helped me to deliver above-average results during the past 3 1-2 years.

Your County and District Attorney's Office is not a testing laboratory nor a training school. It is one of your most important offices. Your County Attorney prosecutes those who seek to and do violate your rights, your life, the lives of your loved ones, the safety and security of your homes, and the property which you have worked and saved for.

Murderers, rapists, thieves and drunk drivers get experienced criminal lawyers to DEFEND them. Your vote July 22 will determine the type lawyer you want to PROSECUTE them.

THE SWORN DUTY OF A COUNTY ATTORNEY IS TO PROSECUTE ALL PERSONS CHARGED WITH CRIME. THIS I HAVE DONE WITHOUT ANIMOSITY, FEAR OR FAVOR.

AS A PROSECUTOR WHO HAS HONESTLY DONE HIS DUTY, EVEN IN HIGHLY CONTROVERSIAL CASES WHERE PUBLIC OPINION WAS DIVIDED, I ASK FOR YOUR VOTE OF CONFIDENCE AND APPROVAL SATURDAY, JULY 22.

Respectfully yours,
CHARLES T. BANISTER.
